Poor but Honest.

The other forenoon a young man with a forlorn looking countenance and suit of clothes which seemed to have run altogether and consolidated to save expense, mounted a salt barrel on the sidewalk on Michigan avenue, according to the Detroit Free Press and started off with:

"My dear friends pause for a moment and hear my narrative. I am a poor out honest young man. My motto is 'excelsior.' My parents are dead and I am a poor orphan." He added considerable to the above, and in a few minutes he had a crowd of fifty people around him. Then he announced:

"My dear friends, I do not ask for charity. All I want is a fair show to make my way in life. I shall not ask you to chip in a nickle apiece, and I will endeavor to do turn a quadruple somersalt in the fair some salt. He turned another and another then remounted the barrel and said:

"Kind friends I have tried to but I can't do it, Assuring you of my heartfelt thanks I remain yours truly."
